

"THE WORLD IS NOT ENOUGH"

This week saw Dartmouth artist Paul Barclay of Nautical Voyages deliver his latest commission to Monaco for the Russian-owned world's fastest super yacht "The World is not Enough".

The 140-ft tri-deck yacht was built in the Netherlands and is the world's fastest fully equipped luxury yacht. At trials the yacht achieved a top speed of 69 knots. She is reported to have cost a cool $28m! It was previously owned by John A. Staluppi of the USA who has owned a series of such speed-record-holding megayachts, all named after James Bond tales such as Thunderball, Octopussy and Moonraker.

His aim has long been to crack that elusive 70 knots barrier for these types of yacht.
